Organic Waste Treatment (Andijan State Institute of Foreign Languages , Uzbekistan)

Description:

Andijan State Institute of Foreign Languages manages organic waste generated on campus through cooperation with a licensed environmental service provider.

Organic waste, including food waste from campus facilities and biodegradable green waste (such as leaves and plant residues), is collected separately and transferred under contract to “BIO-TEX-EKO” LLC, Andijan City Branch. The company ensures proper treatment of organic waste in accordance with environmental regulations. Organic materials are processed through environmentally responsible methods, enabling their beneficial reuse, such as composting or conversion into useful by-products. This approach prevents landfill disposal and supports sustainable waste management practices.

Through cooperation with a licensed waste treatment company, the institute contributes to reducing environmental impact and promoting responsible organic waste handling.
